MEASURE FOR MEASURE. At a recent meeting of gentlemen met in a business capacity, one of whom was a colored man, the question of the trentment of black persons cume up, and he remarked to his fulness. The cost of caring for those sick of it, to say nothing of the genuine respect: "Gentlemen, you have little conception of how a black man feels or what he bas to endure. "Let me explain," went on Law. "1 beg your grace to remember again. that when your grace was good enough to take out of the hands of my brother and nivself our fittle bank-which we had run honorably and successfullyyou change at one sweep the whole principle of honest banking You promised to pay a note back of which there was uo value, no fixed limit of measurement. Twice you have changed the coluage of the realm, and twice assigned a new value to your specie. No one can tell what one of your shares In the stock of the Indies means in actual coln. It means nothing, stands for nothing, is good for nothing. Now, thluk you, when these people, when this France shall discover these facts. that they will be fenient with those who have thus deceived them?"

"Yet your theory always was that we had too great a scarcity of money here in France," expostulated the re-

"True, so I did. We had not enough of good money. We cannot have too little of talse money, of money such as your grace—as you thought without my knowledge-has been so eager to issue from the presses of our company. It had been an easy thing for the regent of France to pay off all the debts of the world from now until the verge of eternity, had not his presses given out Money of that sort, your grace, is such as any man could print for hlmwif, dld he but have the linen and the lnk."

The regent again dropped to his chair, his head falling forward upon his breast.

"Hut what does it all mean? What riall be done? What will be the re-4:1t?" he asked, his voice showing well erough the anxlety which had swiftly Tailen upon his soul.

'As to that," repiled Law, faconical-Is, "I am no longer master here. I am not controller of finance. Appoint Dubo's, appoint D'Argenson. Send for the Brothers Parls. Take them to this window, your grace, and show them your people, show them your France, and then ask them to tell you what shall he done. Cry out to all the world, as I know you will, that this was the fault of an unknown adventurer, of a Scotch gambler, of one John Law, who hrought forth some pretentious schemes to the detriment of the realm. Saddie upon me the blame for all this ruin which is coming. Malign me, misrepresent me, imprison me, exile me, hehead me If you like, and blame John Law for the discomfiture of France! But when you come to seek your remedles, why ask no more of John Law. Ask of Dubois, ask of D'Argenson, ask of the Paris Freres; or, since your grace has seen fit to override me and to take these matters in his own hands, let your grace ask of himself! Tell me, as regent of France, as master of Paris, as guardian of the rights of this young king, as controller of the finances of France, as savior or destroyer of the welfare of these people of France, and of that America which is greater than this France-tell me, what will you do, your grace? What do you auggest as remedy?"

"Von devil! you arch flead!" exelalmed the regent, starting up and layluz his hand on his sword. "There la no punislement you do not deserve! 'Ves. And then?"

"Why, then, your grace," sald Law, then we shall see what we shall see!" The regent again choked with anger, Law continued "Go on. Smooth down the back of this animal. Continue to reduce these taxes. The specie of the realm of france, as I am banker enough to know, is not more than 1,300,000,000 livres, allowing 65 livres to the marc. Yet long before this your grace has crowded the Issue of our actions until there are out not less than 2,600,000,000 livres in the stock of our company. "But this they are doing," broke in the regent, with a ray of hope in his "This they are doing. We have provided for that. In the council not an hour ago the Ablie Dubols and Monsleur d'Argenson declded that the time had come to make some fixed proportion between the specie and these notes. We have to-day framed an edict, which the parliament will register, stating that the interests of the subjects of the king require that the price of these hank notes should be lessened, so that there may be some sort of accommodation between them and the coin of the realm. We have ordered that the shares shall, within 30 days, drop to 7,500 llvres, in another 30 days to 7,000 llvres, and so on, at 500 livres a month, until at last they shall have a value of one-half what they were to-day. ### CHAPTER XLL

THE BUREAKING OF THE BURBLE

It was the evening of the day for owing that on which John law and the regent of France had met in their stormy interview. During the morning but little had transpired regarding the significant events of the previous day in these vast and excited crowds di vided into groups and ellques and fac tions, aided by no builetins, counseled by no printed page, there was but lit le cohesion of purpose, since there was little unity of understanding. The price of shares at one klosk might be certain thousands of livres, whereas a square away, the price might rary by half as msay llvres; so impetuous was the advance of these continually rising prices, and so frenzied and carcless temper of those who bargained tor them.

Yet before noon of the day following the decree of the regent, which fixed the value of actions upon a descending scale, the news, after n fashion of its own spread rapidly abroad, and nil too swiftly the truth was generally known. The story started in a rumor that shares had been offered and declined few moments before. This was something which had not been known in all these feverish months of the Messasebe. Then came the story that shares could not be counted upon to realize over 8,000 llvres. At that the price of all the actions dropped in a flash, as Law had prophesled. A sudden wave of sanity, a panic chill of sober understanding swept over this vast multitude of still unreasoning souls who had traded so long upon this impossible supposition of an ever-advancing mar-Reason still lacked among them. yet fear and sudden suspicion were not wanting. Man after man hastened swiftly away to sell privately his shares | do you think alls you?" before greater drop in the price might come. He met others upon the same errand.

Precisely the reverse of the old situation now obtained. As all Paris had fought to buy, so now all Paris fought to sell. The streets were filled with clamoring mohs. If earlier there had been confusion, now there was pandemonlum. Never was such a scene wit-Never was there chronicled go swift and atter reversion of emotion In the minds of a great concourse of Bitter indeed was the wave of people. agony that swept over Parls. It began at the Messasebe, in the gardens of the Hotel de Solsson, at that focus hard by the temple of Fortuna. It spread and spread, edging out into all the remoter portions of the walled city, it reached ultimately the extreme contines of Parls, into the crowded square which had been decreed as the trading-place of the Messasebe aystem, there crowded from the outer purllens yet other thousands of excited human beings. The end had come. The bubble had burst. There was no longer any system of the Messasebe!

It was inte in the day, in fact well on toward night, when the knowledge of the crash came into the neighborhood where dwelt the Lady Catharine Knollys. To her the news was brought by a servant, who excitedly burst unnanounced Into her inlstress' resence. "Madame!" she cried. 'Prepare! 'Tis horrible! possible! All is at an end!"

"What mean you, glal!" erled Lady Catharine, displeased at the disrespect. "What is happening? Is there fire? And even if there were, could you not remember your duty more seemly than

"But we shall not be rich, Madame! We are ruined, rulaed! Mon Dieu! we poor folk! We had the hope to be persons of quality. 'Tis ail the work of this villian Jean L'as. May the hastlile get him, or the people, and make him pay for this!

"Stop! Enough of this, Marie!" said the Lady Caticarine, ateunly, "After this have better wisdom, and do not meddle in things which you do not understand.

Yet scarce had the girl departed before there appeared again the sound of running steps, and presently there broke, equally unannounced, into the presence of his mistress, the coachman, fresh from his stables and none too eareful of his garb. Tears ran down his cheeks. He flung out his hands with gestures as of one demented.

"The news!" cried he. "The news, my lady! The horrlible news! Ths system has vanished, the shares are going down!"

"Fellow, what do you here?" said Lady Catharlae, "Why do you come with this same story which Marle has just brought to me? Can you not learn your place?

"But, my lady, you do not maderrelierated the man blankly. Tis all over. The stable cought fire. With the courage of the boy on the burning deck, she refused to leave her post, The top of the barrel took line. It hurned half-way down, and still the hen dld not move.

The stable was almost totally destroyed, but the firemen had the flames so far under control that a stream of water, turned upon the hen's apart-

Former Senator Allen made good his word that he would not enter into while the nominations were making he twice instructed the chairman of the Nebraska delegation to say that his name must not go before the convention. But, in the face of this, Alien received more than 400 votes, and many believe he would have been nominated had he given his consent to be a candidate.

Williams, of Indiana, who worked harder for the nomination, and who made more claims than any one else, made a poor showing, and, when his own state was called, 11 of the 24 delegates refused to support him, voting for Allen. He soon withdrew in favor of Watson and moved to make the nomination of Watson unanimous. There were five nominations for vice president, Thomas H. Tibbles, Nebraska; Theo. Ii. Rynder, Pennsylvania; R. L. Wenner, Colorado; George F. Washburn, Massachusetts, and Samuel W. Williams, Indians. The two latter declined and Tibbles received nearly all the votes on the first ballot and was nominated by acclamation.

A. J. Mailett, of Texas, was chosen permanent chairman. The committee on credentiale wrangled many hours on the question as to whether one Senator Smith, of New Jersey; Patrick man should be permitted to cast the vote of an entire state, when a state had only one delegate in the convention, and being unable to agree, it was referred to the convention where It was wrestled with until past the noon

That power very largely determines for us the agencies and instruments of instruction as we determine those of our children. Where and how we were born and what the nature of our environment in which our life was first unfolded was not ours to settle. But we were at school. The very air we breathed, the changes of the atmosphere and a thousand other things connected with nature and man have been shaping our lives. But organism and environment have thus been potent factors. Environment may be credited with nine-tenths of our education and heredity with a scant one-tenth. Pride is always ready for a clash, and foams and tosses in a cataract. Lord: I seek not mine own will, but of unloosened greed.

Envy runs into vice and crime at a gallop.

What is it that makes a man stand as still as a rock and let storm after storm of freezing hail pour into his bosom without bringing a curse tory. to his lips, and without sending despair into his soul? What will enable him to endure uncomplainingly the woes of isolation, where there is no comradeship for him save the roar of the storm? What is it that will sumption. make him dumb with the dumbness of a red Indian at the stake when calumnies are piling their fagots about his feet? It is love, the love that suffers long, that can live on a crumb of hope, that can live and grow first and third, under later kings, not without hope at all, that keeps a woman clinging to her son when she sees him careening down toward hell, that ties a child to a father when tCol. # Achieving Freedom

By DR. FRANK W. GUNSAULUS, President Armour Institute, Chicago.

There was never a more interesting falsehood than "All men are created free and equal." The Declaration of Independence was the workof an hour of intense excitement, and on every national anniversary this phrase is misquoted because when it is taken from its context it is false. Freedom is something to be won. Men are not born free. Every power into whose control a man comes is a compuered freedom. There are no equals in this universe of God's. God is no socialist.

The problem of problems is to get a humanity that is energetic and militant-that is restful. The world needs men who can observe the approach of tremendous coming events as the engineer does the engine and still remain placid in the face of this force. Get the utmost efficiency into life with the least waste just as in the principles of physics. Put your methods into life so as to make the engine of life go ahead accurately and with power. The young man of to-day has an errand unto the world and must make himself a captain.

TWO STRAWBERRY PESTS.

They Are Called False-Worm and Leaf Roller and Are Very Hard to Exterprinate.

The Missouri station just year conlucted some very interesting experiments and investigations in the destruction of the two worst strawberry nests in this country, the false-worm and the leat-roller. The first is found to have but one brond which hatches from the time the first slossoms apnear till the berries are ripe. These can easily be held in check by dusting or spraying about the toghining and middle of this time. For the home patch or home market, it is lest in dust the paick with pure, fresh, and s in his last nanual report and pyrethinm, which care be done at any time, as it is absolutely harmless. This is, however, the most expensive and least effective of all the known remoties. For commercial growers, the lest method is to use fresh powdered white hellebore in the proportion of one pound to every three gallons of water. This should be sprayed an before the berries are a third ripe, so that the rains and dews will have abundant time to dissipate any possilde harmful effects from It The tenf-roller probably has only wo breads in the morth, but in southern Missouti it has three. This post has so many ways of protecting itself that no kind of sprays or ordinary remody does any good fortunately, however, thre doesn't hart the plants any anti-does dispose of them very effeetnally The plants should be mowed, dried, raked up on the rows and If necessary assisted by the addition of dry straw and the whole burned when the wind is in the right direction. In the south this should be done either in the middle of July, to atch the second brood, or in the middle of September, to catch the third. The plants will at once but forth a set of tresh green leaves free from pests of all kinds, the next year's crop will generally be remarkably successful.

INSECTS THAT MAKE BURS.

Something About the Cunningly Constructed Home of a Fly, Known as Rhodites Eglantina.

Of course you do not expect to see chestnut burs on a wild rose bush, but occasionally, if you are an observant bey or giri, you will discover some big round, green growth surrounding the stalk of the fragrant sweet briar, that on account of their dense covering of spiny "priekles" look very much like burs. But inside you will find that the resemblance ceases, for instead of a shining trio of fat brown nuts, you will find a series of compact little cells where-In are curled up, each mite in a compartment of its own, a number of small white larvae. They secure a sufficient amount of nourlshment from the walls of their tiny chambers, which are composed of succulent matter.

Now when you have discovered that this fuany growth is not the fruit of the sweet-smelling pink rose, you will be interested in h as a cunningly constructed home of a small insect family.
